WHAT THIS VERIFIES

A product with zero units must be visibly marked "Sold out", must not offer add-to-bag, must not carry a marketing sticker, and must not be advertised on the home page rails — while remaining reachable at its own URL so shared links keep working.

REPRODUCE MANUALLY

1. In the admin console, set any product's stock to 0 (Inventory → adjust).
2. Open the home page: the product no longer appears in any rail.
3. Open `##shop`: the product is still listed, greyed, badged "Sold out", and sits below every in-stock piece.
4. Its add-to-bag button on the card is disabled and does not open the quick-add sheet.
5. Open the product page directly: it loads, and "Add to Bag" is disabled with an out-of-stock notice.

STEPS (9)

1 Home page

Rails advertise only pieces that can be shipped.

2 ✓ Sold-out product absent from every home rail

Home rails are merchandising, so they filter on availability.

3 Shop grid

The stock-out is still listed — hiding it would break shared links.

4 ✓ Card is badged "Sold out"

Visible before the customer invests any effort.

No screenshot — data assertion.

5 ✓ Marketing sticker suppressed

The fixture carries sticker "Bestseller"; the card refuses to show it while unbuyable.

6 ✓ Add-to-bag disabled on the card

Clicking it cannot open the quick-add sheet.

7 ✓ Sold-out sinks below every in-stock piece

35 cards; the first sold-out is at position 35 and everything after it is also sold out.

8 Product page

The URL still resolves, so shared links do not 404.
